

Office Restaurant and Lounge Benefit Brings $21,000 for Community Medical Center's J. Phillip Citta Regional Cancer Center

After an all-day, all-night benefit held at the Office Restaurant and Lounge on Route 37 on February 18, the J. Phillip Citta Regional Cancer Center at Community Medical Center was honored to receive a $21,000 donation.

The Office Restaurant and Lounge donated a portion of its proceeds to honor the memory of J. Phillip Citta. The J. Phillip Citta Regional Cancer Center at Community Medical Center is named for Mr. Citta, a successful and popular Dover Township businessman whose family members are longtime supporters of the hospital.

Richard J. Pallamary, vice president of the Community Medical Center Foundation, said, "We are very grateful to the Office Lounge and the Citta family for their ongoing and generous support of our cancer center. Proceeds from this event will be used to support improvements to our cancer center, including new equipment, technology, as well as the programs and services which, most importantly, benefit our patients and their families."

The J. Phillip Citta Regional Cancer Center at Community Medical Center, affiliated with the Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia, offers state-of-the-art radiation oncology, infusion services and educational and support services to patients and their families.

For more information on the J. Phillip Citta Regional Cancer Center or to make a donation, visit www.cmc-foundation.org or call (732) 557-8131.

The Office Restaurant and Lounge recently donated $21,000 to the J. Phillip Citta Regional Cancer Center at Community Medical Center after its annual fundraiser on February 18. Pictured here are representatives from the Office Restaurant and Lounge: Andy Kiraly, Nick Pagano, Lynn Tompkins and Amy Johnson, who presented a check to Richard J. Pallamary (center), vice president of the Community Medical Center Foundation.